MESSAGE FROM EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR & CHAIR OF THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS

Nicole Daniels
EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

Clelia Scala
CHAIR OF THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS

The Kingston Arts Council (KAC) is pleased to share our Annual Report for the 2023-2024 fiscal year (1 April 2023 – 31 March 2024). This report offers a review of our grant programs, services, and activities for the year. Program highlights and statistics serve to illuminate the impact of the KAC on the broader Katarokwi/Kingston community.

This past year marked a period of steady, gradual growth for the organization; with new leadership, we worked towards repositioning the KAC and strengthening connections across our community. The KAC office gradually reopened to the public, with regular open office hours introduced in April 2023 after over three years of COVID-related closures. As KAC settled back into our office space at the Tett Centre for Creativity and Learning, we explored new ways of engaging our community, reintroducing the UNIT 115 exhibition program and welcoming visitors for in-person meetings, events, and drop in office hours. Simultaneously, we began to explore other options for in-person engagement with our community while still providing virtual engagement opportunities, securing a community booth at Skeleton Park Arts Festival, hosting a hybrid Annual General Meeting and Talkback Session, conducting onsite and offsite visits and talks with student and community groups, and more. We're thrilled to report that the KAC office has once again become a space where community members and visitors of all kinds regularly drop in to ask questions, learn, and explore.

The KAC maintained its staff of three (Nicole Daniels, Violet Tang, and Katherine Dionne) throughout 2023-2024 and welcomed three new members to our Board of Directors: Diane Black, Brett Christopher, and Rae MacDonald. As an oversight Board, our Directors ensured that the legal, financial and fiduciary requirements of the KAC were upheld.

KAC administered $619,345 in funding through the City of Kingston Arts Fund in 2023, supporting artists and their organizations through Operating and Project Grants. 2023 also marked the commencement of the City-led CKAF Review, for which the City of Kingston has hired the consulting firm Saffy. The CKAF Review is rooted in community, involves broad public consultation, and is conducted from a place that prioritizes equity, diversity, and inclusion. The KAC remains eager to support this process however we can, and we look forward to improving and hopefully expanding the CKAF program in alignment with the recommendations that come forth through the CKAF Review.

In light of these developments, the KAC reassessed its Strategic Planning timeline in 2023. In recognition of the sustained relevance of our current Strategic Plan, Connected, Vocal, Strong, and the ongoing work required in alignment with our strategic priorities, the KAC Board voted to extend the Strategic Plan by an additional year. We look forward to developing a new Strategic Plan in 2024-2025, and continue to solicit community feedback and initiate grassroots consultations in a variety of fora to ensure our next Plan is deeply rooted in the priorities and needs of our community.

2023-2024 was a successful year for the KAC in many different ways. We wish to thank all those who continue to support and engage with the KAC for your ongoing investment in the organization's vitality. We look forward to continuing the growth and development of the KAC in the years to come!

Special thanks to our key funders and partners: City of Kingston, Ontario Arts Council, Community Foundation for Kingston & Area, Play! Charitable Gaming Association, and our donors.

GRANTS

The Kingston Arts Council administers two key funding programs: the City of Kingston Arts Fund and the Nan Yeomans Grant for Artistic Development.

THE CITY OF KINGSTON ARTS FUND (CKAF) provides grants to local arts organizations, collectives, and individual artists to foster creativity at all levels and enrich how Kingston residents experience and engage with the arts. It is administered by KAC and applications are assessed by a jury of peers from the Kingston arts community. There are two types of funding that are made available through CKAF: Operating Grants (70%) and Project Grants (30%).

Operating Grants provide a crucial foundation for nonprofit arts organizations, increasing administrative capacities and professional and artistic development opportunities. Project Grants fund the creation and presentation of artistic projects and connect diverse audiences with art activities across the city.

Through CKAF, artists and their organizations are able to develop programming, art activities, partnerships, and initiatives that encourage arts engagement, learning opportunities and participation. These funds are an investment in Kingston's cultural capital and they foster cultural vitality, increase the capacity of the arts community, encourage residents to connect with the arts and ultimately enhance Kingston's cultural economy, promoting financial stability and sustainability of the sector.

ARTS CHAMPION AWARD

Jermaine Marshall graduated with a Bachelor of Laws degree from the University of the West Indies and a Master of Arts in Social Justice and Equity Studies and then joined the Queen's University Human Rights and Equity Office in 2021 as the Inclusion and Anti-Racism Advisor. Despite his short time in Kingston, Jermaine has proven himself incredibly community oriented. Performing under the name J-Marsh, Jermaine is an independent vocalist and poet whose art weaves together his love for spoken word poetry and freeform dancing, often investigating his identity as a proud queer Jamaican within the polarizing atmosphere of his home country. Jermaine has been active in organizing Black History Month and Emancipation Day events, and helping to expand the visibility of black artists in the Kingston Arts community, while encouraging engagement with the community as a whole, and advancing spaces for equity and diversity in the city.

LIMESTONE ARTS LEGACY AWARD

Bronwen Wallace (1945–1989) was a poet, short-story writer, and mentor to many aspiring authors as a creative writing instructor at Queen's University and St. Lawrence College in Kingston, ON. Born in Kingston, she remained deeply committed to the community she called home most of her life. In addition to her teaching, her activism and involvement in feminist movements was reflected in her work at Interval House women's shelter, and her column in the Kingston Whig-Standard. As a testament to her continued influence and impact on the writing community, the RBC Bronwen Wallace Award for Emerging Writers was established in her honour in 1994 by a group of friends and colleagues to honour her belief that writers should have more opportunities for recognition early in their careers. "She was always also tuned into the alternative voices, the signals of change and of hope. She believed in people and in the strength of people to survive and prevail." - Chris Whynot

THE ART OF EDI

Presented by the Kingston Arts Council and the Tett Centre for Creativity and Learning in collaboration with KEYS Newcomer and Employment Services and the Kingston and Area Association of Museums, Art Galleries, and Historic Sites.

The Art of EDI was a collaborative community event centred around principles of equity, diversity, inclusion, and accessibility, offering the Katarokwi/Kingston arts community a critical free EDI-focused learning opportunity. Performances and presentations by artists Erin Ball, Maxime Beauregard, Mance Granberg St-Aubin, Elizabeth Morris, and Theresa Upton showcased and educated attendees on diverse perspectives pertaining to accessibility, neurodiversity, Deaf culture, and Indigenous culture. A culminating Q&A session with the artists provided a platform for attendees to engage in dialogue encouraging collaborative efforts toward a more equitable arts sector. The event additionally sought to model various forms of accessibility by offering a relaxed event format, an access table and sensory break space, access notes provided prior to the event, ASL interpretation and captions.

CKAF PROJECT GRANTS INFORMATION SESSION

This information session guided new and returning Project Grant applicants through a detailed review of the 2024 CKAF Project Grant Guidelines, Application Forms, and Assessment Criteria, and offered a Q&A with KAC staff. This free event was held virtually via Zoom, with ASL interpretation provided. KAC additionally offered a series of one-on-one meetings for potential Operating and Project Grant applicants.
